Praia da Luz

The most distinctive natural feature of Luz is the Rocha Negra headland. This unique cliff was created 150million years ago when super-heated volcanic lava spilled through the reddish sandstone bedrock of the Algarve, to form a much more resilient bedrock. After millennia the sandstone cliffs were eroded leaving the much tougher basalt seams, which has become the locals beloved "black rock". From the top there are spectacular views and there are challenging hiking trails to reach the viewpoint.

Faro Airport just 45minutes drive .
